

William Corkine

AYRES,
TO
SING AND PLAY
TO THE LVTE AND BASSE VIOLL.

1610

XII. Shall a frowne or angrie eye.

1

*Shall a frowne or angrie eye,
Shall a word vnfitly placed ?
Shall a shadow make me flie,
As I were with Tygers chaced ?
Loue must not be so disgraced.*

2

*Shall I woe her in dispight ?
Shall I turne her from her flying ?
Shall I tempt her with delight,
Shall I laugh out her denying ?
Noe, beware of louers crying.*

3

*Shall I then with patient mind,
Still attend her wayward pleasure,
Time will make her proue more kind,
Let her coyresse then take leasure,
Paines are worthy such a treasure.*